A Word From the Rabbi

Your People Shall be My People

The festival of Weeks (Shavuot) is just a few days away. We've been counting our way through seven weeks from the second night of Passover, and day #50 — Beginning on Saturday evening — is Shavuot. When we encounter this festival within the Torah, we find a harvest celebration of the first fruits - bikurim (same root as bechor, first born). And when we revisit the scroll of Ruth, the harvest provides a background for the beautiful story.

The rabbis added a new layer to the Shavuot experience — Z'man Matan Torateinu, the time of the Giving of the Torah. This reframing of the holiday presents the study of torah as a spiritual moment, a renewing of our covenant, a deepening of our love of the Word.

Back to enduring power of the story told in the Scroll of Ruth. There's the tragedy that bonds Naomi to her Moabite daughters in law, the persistence of Ruth who so movingly pleads with Naomi: "Don't ask me to leave you..." There's the kindness of Boaz, and, of course, the epilogue which draws the thread from Ruth to King David.

Whenever I think about the scroll of Ruth, I'm struck by the power of kindness and love. Surely there's an abiding faith — your people shall be my people, your God will be my God — but I think the glue that holds it all together is love, the extra cup of kindness reserved for the poor gleaner who has nothing. It is our love for the stranger, our taking a risk by offering food and shelter, by caring, that will herald redemption.

The times in which we live are beset by sorrow and pain. Cruelty and indifference have left callouses on our humanity. Back in that ancient tale, Naomi was worn down enough to declare: Don't call me Naomi (which means sweetness and pleasantness); call me Mara (which means bitter) because God's hand has been rough on me. Still, despite her bleak outlook, she let Ruth in. And Boaz, blessed with a kind heart, was the agent of a sweet and blessed turn of events that lift us up each year as we embrace Torah, and we remember that kindness paves the way to salvation.

A WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT

I cannot believe June is here and the first year of my term has just flown by! I find myself thinking back on this past year and wonder where the time has gone. I am happy to be able to say that despite Covid, our Congregation has not only survived, but we have also managed to do quite well with our regular services, holidays, adult and children educational needs, and life cycle events. Our annual meeting is coming up and will be available both in person and on zoom. As of now, we are looking forward to being back in shul for the High Holidays both in person and on zoom.

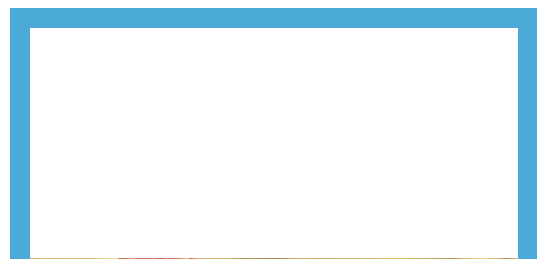

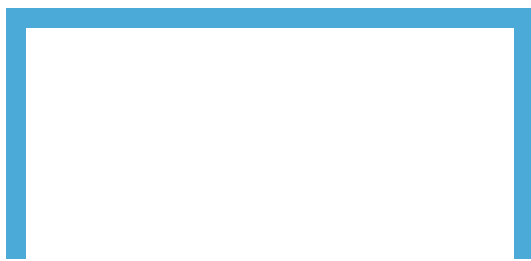

We are also planning to start back food services for Shabbat, both Kiddish and Shabbat dinners, and hope to have Kol Nidre dinner this year as well. I need volunteers to help with any and all, so please let me know if you are willing to help. Later this month, we will be having some safety training here at the synagogue. It is a short program with vital safety information, and I hope that most of you are able to come. More details about the time and date will be forthcoming.

I want to thank everyone who has helped make this year fly by! I know we will have a great year with amazing programming and services for the upcoming year.

Hope all of you have a great summer! See all of you in shul!

Shalom!

Shelley
